Taking Action in Mississauga-Erindale

Eden Community Food Bank (ECFB) is a non-denominational, charitable organization working to eliminate hunger through food distribution to qualified individuals and families living in selected areas of Mississauga. ECFB makes all efforts to provide healthy, balanced food choices and provide choices that meet various cultural and dietary requirements.

Providing food to families in need is something ECFB has done for a long time and is always trying to do better. But although use of the food bank continues to rise, ECFB recognizes that the issues facing its clients are much larger than just the need for food. Its advocacy program supports clients with referrals, information, and advice on issues such as housing, employment search, settlement, community legal clinics, violence and abuse, prenatal care, child welfare, government supports, and health.

ECFB is currently developing a Community Learning Kitchen program that will include cooking classes and an employment program to integrate people with barriers to employment into the food industry. The focus is still on food, but the goal is to empower individuals and families in the community by helping them develop skills to provide for themselves and their families, make affordable and healthy choices, and ultimately become less dependent on the food bank.
